New Building Delayed—Crowded for Room.

Expecting to open our new building in May, we bought tremendous stocks of goods suitable for the late spring and early summer trade. Delays, unforeseen and unavoidable, make it impossible for us to get this increased room until after the season has gone. Meanwhile whole shiploads of our fine imported goods have been piling up not only in our own stores, but in the bonded warehouses as well. Great blocks of American goods made to our special order are also crowding in upon us. There is only one thing to do. These vast stocks have got to be sold—and sold now. Monday we begin a great

SACRIFICE SALE Of Over $1,000,000 Worth of Monday It Begins.

These prices are very fair illustrations of what we shall do in all departments. Four hundred extra salespeople and twenty-five extra delivery wagons will insure reasonably prompt service to all. We respectfully suggest to intending purchasers the great desirability of making selections as early in the week as possible.

THEY HON'T WAIT FOR THE TIDE.
The Paris and New York to Salt Honey at a Fixed Hour Each Setting Day.

For many years it has been the custom of liners of deep draught to leave port on the flood tide. The custom still exists, although its cause has been removed by the dredging of the ship channel. Less than ten years ago steamships drawing twenty-two feet, although they might be sighted in the Fire Island in the early afternoon, were unable to cross the bar except at low water.

Now, less than thirty-two feet of water on the bar at low water, and the deepest twin-screw ship that can pass in or out without fear of touching bottom. As they used to wait outside the bar for high water, the liners now remain in port on the flood tide, days until the next low water. The time of sailing being regulated by the tide, is often set before daylight. With ample water to draw on, the ships dare not sail when there seems to be no good reason why steamships should not get under way at a set time every sailing day. The American line is going to follow the example.

In order to avoid the expense of the incident attending the recent eastward voyage of the liner "Paris," which was held up at sea for nearly two weeks, the American line has decided to immediately adopt a fixed hour for sailing from New York, while the British and French lines will wait for the bar to be clear.

The "Paris" in the morning is selected as being the latest for passengers, and the New York and Paris, when sailing at this hour, are the last to leave in ordinary.
